Section –A Reading Comprehension

A) Read the passage and answer.

In Nagaland, there is a special game called Hekko, which means "Challenging the Tiger." Long ago, people believed that both humans and animals were equally strong. To test this, they created a game. In this game, there are two teams: Aami (the humans) and Aakho (the tiger). Each team has 11 players. A circle is drawn, and the Aami team must stay inside by holding hands, while the Aakho team stays outside. The Aakho players try to push Aami players out, while Aami players try to catch the Aakho players. The game ends when all Aami are pushed out, all Aakho are caught, or the time is over.

The fastest Aami is called Khozuba and the strongest Aakho is called Khotiba.
